Eldon C. Munce, of Portland, Oregon, commander of the local B. E. F. camp, near the National cemetery, who led a delegation of Oregon veterans in revolt against the former national B. E. F. commander, Walter W. Waters, and who came to Gettysburg when the bonus marchers were driven out of Washington, was elected national commander of the B. E. F. at an election held Thursday.

About 400 ballots were cast by the local bonus-seekers and others established in camps, said to be in Maryland and at Washington, were shipped here to be tallied. Munce was "overwhelmingly elected" a spokesman at the local camp said this morning.

New Officers Chosen
Other officers elected Thursday are:

Bert C. Woods, of Providence, Rhode Island, junior vice commander. Woods was chief of staff.

W. D. Monahan, of Baltimore and Salt Lake City, Utah, was elected secretary, and Marion Borilo, of Leechburg, Pa., only medal of honor man in the camp, regimental finance officer.

Munce and Woods left this morning for Washington to attend a meeting of the national executive committee. The committee expressed itself as favoring immediate cash payment of the bonus.

Grace Commander Here

J. N. Grace, of Las Vegas, New Mexico, was elected commander of the local B. E. F. camp. Lawrence Fisher, of Detroit, was elected vice commander, and R. D. Butler, of Jackson, Mississippi, was chosen recording secretary.

B. H. Ruffing, of Seattle, Washington, was elected executive chairman of the local camp. Scott B. McCafferty, of Akron, Ohio, was chosen chairman of the national speaker's bureau.

O. L. Daly, of Akron, and Vernon L. Butler, of Detroit, were elected national judge advocates. Samuel Bottomley, of Newark, was chosen national finance adviser.

It was said at the local camp that the national officers are expected to make the Gettysburg camp headquarters of the B. E. F., that a permanent lobby will be maintained in Washington and that the bonus seekers will maintain a permanent organization.

Seven New Arrivals

An additional small supply of food was received from nearby farmers, camp spokesmen said. Corn on cob was the chief item on today's noon mess.

Seven additional bonus seekers are reported to have arrived here during the past 24 hours, increasing the personnel of the camp to 236.

Governor Pinchot's office in Harrisburg reported that the state's chief executive "if he gets a chance will visit the camp next week."

Pinchot was reported to have planned to come here Thursday afternoon but instead went to Williamsport to attend a funeral. He was then expected to come here today but this was denied at the governor's office. It is not known definitely whether he will come to Gettysburg.

Toledo Veterans Organize

Local camp spokesmen said that Toledo veterans reported they had a delegation of 1,500 ready to come here but that they were advised to establish their own camp and to send a committee of representatives to remain here.

$740 was reported realized from the ball game between the B. E. F. and the local firemen's team, Thursday night.

A boxing match is scheduled for the camp tonight with a dance Saturday night.

Second Paralysis Case In County

Another case of infantile paralysis in Adams county is reported today by John H. Deatrick, county health officer. He quarantined the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ross, Straban township, this morning, where Evelyn Ross, aged nine years, is afflicted with the disease.

This is the second case to be reported in Adams county. Both cases are mild, the health officer said.

Senator Clippinger is the republican candidate for re-election to the state legislature from the Adams-Franklin district.

Abram Keefer, chairman of the Franklin township taxpayers union will preside at the meeting.

GAS OFFICIALS MAY CHANGE TO NATURAL LINES

The next step of gas company officials in their proposed plan to transfer from manufactured gas to natural gas, by tapping natural gas lines piped here from Western Pennsylvania, will be their appearance before town council Monday night.

The gas company suggested at an informal meeting Thursday noon at the Hotel Gettysburg with directors of the Chamber of Commerce and members of town council that consumption of natural gas here would reduce the cost to consumers.

Consumption Of Natural Gas Would Decrease Cost Here.

THREE LINES ARE AVAILABLE

They said that while the new tariff schedule would be slightly higher than the present rate the total cost would be less than under the present system because less gas would be consumed.

It is not known when the new tariff schedule would be filed with the public service commission but it was expected to be ready shortly after the gas company officials meet with town council.

Three natural gas lines can be tapped for service to Gettysburg consumers. One line lies between Gettysburg and Biglerville, the second between here and Fairfield and the third in the neighborhood of Cashtown. It is not known which line will be tapped or whether all three lines will be pressed into service in event natural gas is adopted here.

All changes to the gas appliances in the homes, business places and industrial plants will be executed by the company at their own expense, gas company officials said.

Legion To Meet Monday Night

Gettysburg's Albert J. Lentz post, The American Legion, will hold a special business meeting, Monday night, in the post rooms, Baltimore street.

It is not known whether the local post will take any action relative to the B. E. F. camp here. Local post officials refused to comment on the nature of the special business to be discussed at Monday's meeting.

Parking Signs Placed On Curbs

Signs restricting automobile parking to two hours and prohibiting double parking have been erected along the curbs of the principal streets in Gettysburg.

The signs were erected in accordance with a parking ordinance adopted by town council recently.

Pastor's Nuptials Delayed By Illness of Bride-to-be

Although no date for the postponed nuptials has been set, the Rev. Mr. Crane said he expects the ceremony to be performed either in the first or second week in September. The couple is to be married in Penningtonville Presbyterian church, Atglen, by the Rev. W. S. Crane, of Dryden, New York, father of the Gettysburg minister.

In anticipation of the wedding, the Presbyterian manse on East high street has been completely renovated. It has been repainted inside and out, papered, new hardwood floors laid on the first floor and new plumbing fixtures installed.

By coincidence, the Rev. Mr. Crane's predecessor in the pastorate of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church, the Rev. Edward Jones, was married by his father after leaving Gettysburg.

Local Presbyterian Minister Announces Postponement Of Wedding.

The Rev. Frederick B. Crane, pastor of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church, today announced that his wedding to Miss Roberta Futhey Phillips, of Atglen, scheduled for Thursday, August 25, at 4 o'clock, will be postponed for several weeks, owing to the illness of the bride-to-be.

Miss Phillips, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Phillips, contracted a serious fever several weeks ago, which has kept her confined to bed. Although she is considerably improved and is gaining strength daily, Miss Phillips will not be able to be about actively for some time.

Rouzeville Man Reports Robbery To Local State Police.

Thieves broke into and robbed the filling station of Clarence Bear, Rouzeville, of a quantity of merchandise, sometime during Thursday night or Friday morning, according to a report received at the local sub-station of state police.

The thieves gained entrance to the filling station by prying open a window. They looted the station of most of the merchandise and escaped without leaving a clue.

Troopers S. J. Walsh and W. H. Gressang left this morning to investigate the robbery. They had not returned to the local station at noon today and it is not known whether or not they secured any clues.

Medicine Show Near Littlestown Draws "Barrage" from Citizens

Audience Resents Language
Used By Performer Thursday Evening.

LITTLESTOWN young men are not without pride in their community and principle.

The Dixie Lee show of "medicine, candy and polish," playing in Germany township, near Littlestown, and attracting fair sized crowds during the past week, received a shower of "cowardly tomatoes and eggs" Thursday night, in retaliation against the "character of the performance and the language used by the performers."

The "Dixie Lee" performers, said to be advertising a certain kind of polish and candy and "medicine" arrived near Littlestown about a week ago to "show their wares." The cast comprised two girls and four men.

Audience Resents Language
Every night they have been "performing" and when the collection at one of the performances did not meet the expectation of the chief announcer he is alleged to have used "abusive language" in expressing his opinion of his audience. The audience is said to have resented the announcer's language and pelted him with "fresh fruit."

The "Dixie Lee" show continued and Littlestown youth are said to have decided to drive them out of the neighborhood.

At Thursday night's performance a band of young men, armed with "cowardly tomatoes and eggs" (the kind that hit and run) at the "zero moment" let fly the fruit at the performers, pelting them on the head, face, body and not a few splashing over the ornate scenery.

Police Are Called
Corporal Schwartz of the motor patrol and Private Welsh of the state police, were called but when they arrived the "pelting" had disappeared and the show continued.

The proceeds are said to have diminished considerably. No arrests have been made. Several Gettysburg men are reported to have participated in the "tomato-egg-throwing" episode.

COUNTY AGENT MAKES CHARGES

Twelve Dog Owners In Franklin Township Taken Into Custody.

Twelve more prosecutions have been laid by George A. Raffensperger, field agent of the bureau of animal industry in Adams county, among owners of unlicensed dogs in Franklin township. This is the second township to feel the action of the officers in their campaign to round up the owners of unlicensed dogs.

In a number of instances when dog owners have secured licenses for their dogs after the violations have occurred, the prosecutions against them have been continued and not dropped as was reported previously.

The local field agent offers the following suggestions to dog owners in Adams county relating to their care and the limits of the law in Pennsylvania.

Quoting from the Pennsylvania dog law: "It is unlawful for any person to own or keep any dog six months old or over unless such dog is licensed, and unless such dog at all times wears the collar and tag."

Another important fact that the state offers is: "Keep your dog under control. Know where your dog is at all times." Dogs, licensed or unlicensed, are not supposed to run at large between the hours of sunset and sun-up.

The dog law provides: "Any person violating or failing or refusing to comply with any provision of the dog law is liable to a fine of not less than $5.00 nor more than $100.00 or 30 days in jail, or both."

THIEVES TAKE 21 FOWLS AT GRANITE FARM

Turkeys Stolen From Coop Several Days Ago.

LOCAL OFFICERS INVESTIGATE

A thief or a band of thieves, believed by local officers to be "graduated" from chicken thievery, robbed the turkey coop of Robert Sanders, at Granite, of 21 young turkeys several days ago but the theft was not reported to local state police until this morning. Trooper W. E. Brandt, of the local sub-station of state police, went to Granite this morning to investigate.

No details of the robbery were reported to the police. The 21 young turkeys were stolen sometime during the night, several days ago.

Valuable Birds
The turkeys were of a prize lot being fattened by Mr. Sanders for the Thanksgiving season and were said to be of good weight and well on the road to a profitable return for Mr. Sanders.

Petty thievery in the rural sections of the county have not been as numerous as in previous years and officers were of the belief that they had broken up the habit of robbing hen coops.

Police Promise Action
The turkey stealing episode is the first reported in Adams county for some time and Sergeant Russell W. Frutchey, in charge of the local station of state police, said he was determined to break up the chicken or turkey stealing bands in this area.

He urges all farmers to report these thefts at once in order that local officers may start their investigation "while the trails are hot."

Several years ago Adams county was overrun with a band of chicken thieves and state police were successful in running down the bands and bringing them to justice with the result that hen coop robberies were few and far between.

Observers Share Various Opinions About "Meteor Shower" Last Night

Some Report Shooting Stars
And Others See Nothing "Unusual."

There seems to be a conflict of opinion relative to the reported "meteor shower" from the heavens, scheduled to take place some time between midnight, Thursday night, and dawn this morning.

World renowned astronomers broadcast through press dispatches the annual display of the Perseid shooting stars at the above reported time. Local "sky display" followers eagerly awaited the shooting stars' episode this morning.

Ideal Night For Display
Some persons reported that they saw at least "eight beautiful shooting stars" and that the spectacle was "larger and more pronounced than any ever before witnessed."

Other persons said they remained awake until the late hours this morning and did not see anything unusual in the heavens.

Astronomers said the sky display would be visible in any part of the country where the skies were clear.

Seizes Furniture

Littlestown Police Officer Searches House Of Former Frederick Man.

Officer Baumgardner, former Pennsylvania highway motor patrolman stationed here, and now chief of police at Littlestown, searched the home of Raymond Ecker, at the edge of Littlestown, Thursday afternoon, and seized a quantity of alleged stolen furniture.

Officer Baumgardner searched Ecker's residence upon complaint of John Etzler, of Frederick, who alleges that Ecker stole the furniture, valued at about $45 or $50 from his home, at Middleburg.

Frederick officials are expected to swear out a warrant for Ecker's arrest today, Officer Baumgardner said. Ecker moved to Littlestown a short time ago.

AUTO THEFT LAID TO CASHIER, IS COUNTY NATIVE

Littlestown Native
Resigns Position
In Windsor Bank.

Robert J. Smith, until Friday, when he resigned, the cashier of the First National bank at Windsor, and formerly of Littlestown, is the defendant in a prosecution brought by his daughter, Patricia, a nurse in training at the Shepard Pratt hospital, near Baltimore, for the theft of an automobile.

The information brought by the daughter was sworn to before Alderman Walter P. Owen, York, and now Smith is being sought. City police and Detective W. H. Myers, are also participating in the search.

DAUGHTER IS PROSECUTRIX

Charged With Misconduct
Since his resignation from the bank staff, Smith had been living with his wife at their bungalow, "Driftwood," at Long Level, York county. He relinquished his position, it was said, following his being called before the board of directors of the Windsor institution for "indiscreet conduct."

The directors of the bank have elected William H. Eisenhart, York, as cashier and he has assumed his duties. Mr. Eisenhart was formerly a clerk in the First National bank, York.

Native of Littlestown
The missing ex-cashier is a native of Littlestown. He was called to Windsor 10 years ago when the bank at that place was organized and served as cashier until last Friday. He resided in an apartment above the bank.

Another Windsor resident who was reported missing Thursday is Mrs. Maggie Myers. She was not at her place of employment and an effort of a York reporter to interview her at her home was futile.

No one responded to vigorous knocks on the door. It is said that Mrs. Myers was seen Wednesday night in an automobile accompanied by the missing ex-cashier.

The missing cashier was employed at the Littlestown Savings institution in Littlestown before going to Windsor.

Local state police were asked to look for the missing cashier today.

HANOVER BODY KEEPS LIPPY

Move To Dispose Of Tax Collector Not Within School Law.

Action disposing of A. B. Lippy as collector of school taxes in Hanover and appointing Miss Helen B. Slagle to succeed him, which was taken Wednesday night, was rescinded at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon by the school board of the Hanover district, and the board is again prepared to offer the tax duplicate for 1932 to Mr. Lippy.

The board was not within the law in declaring a vacancy in the position of a person duly elected by the people to collect taxes, according to an opinion handed down to the board by its attorney, Guy W. Bange. Several opinions given by superior and supreme courts in similar cases were read by Solicitor Bange.

Lippy has been literally bounced up and down for the past several months by the board, prior to which he had been openly praised and congratulated for his fine work by board members. But the board then decided that it wanted to collect its own taxes. Immediately the board adopted a resolution cutting Lippy's commission from one per cent to one-fourth of one per cent. Lippy refused to collect on this commission basis because his bond would have cost more than he would have received in commission. The board then re-established the original commission basis. Since this time Lippy was required to furnish his bond and twice presented documents which the board rejected.

Lippy was summoned before the board after the action was rescinded, and was asked if he desired to collect the 1932 taxes. Mr. Lippy's answer will be given at a special meeting today.

Lippy was alleged to have shot U. Grant Farling, Penn township, Wednesday a week, as Farling and Sylvan Clay, also of Penn township, a former Carlisle constable, walked toward Reid's home along the Pine Grove Furnace road.

Farling, appearing with his right arm bandaged, said he was motoring with his wife, six children and Clay when the automobile ran out of gasoline. The two went toward the Reid home when suddenly a "light flared and a gun went off."

Reid was only 12 feet away, he said. "I was walking in the highway toward the house when shot," Farling said. His story was corroborated by Clay and Mrs. Farling. At the time of his arrest Reid said the two were attempting to break into his garage. Reid was born in Scotland.

REVOLT LEADER SEIZED WHILE FLEEING SPAIN

General And Officers Of Revolt Will Face Supreme Court.

Madrid, Aug. 12 (AP).—Gen. Jose Sanjurjo, leader of a short-lived revolt against the republic, was brought a captive to Madrid Thursday night for trial while rioting mobs in Seville took their vengeance on monarchist sympathizers.

Dressed in civilian clothes the short and burly general, formerly known as one of the bravest men in Spain, was spirited to police headquarters here by Major Arturo Menedez Lopez, national director of public safety.

General to Face Court. Shortly afterward Premier Manuel Azana announced that the general and all other officers and civilians connected with the revolt would be tried by the sixth section of the supreme court. This tribunal is devoted to military affairs.

The premier's decision followed upon conferences with other members of the cabinet, in which the consensus showed a desire to grant the rebels a maximum of constitutional guarantees. It was a departure from custom in Spain, where military courts-martial were held for all former revolutionaries, including President Niceto Alcalá Zamora and other members of the present regime who were tried under the monarchy.

Asks Route to Portugal. General Sanjurjo, who complained that "everybody abandoned me in my undertaking" after his revolt collapsed, was held incommunicado at police headquarters here. He was arrested early Thursday in flight at Huelva after he had asked a rural guard to show him the best way to Portugal.

Congress, meanwhile, unanimously approved Premier Azana's proposal to grant the government authority to reward faithful employees and officials who acted in minor capacities during the revolt and to punish those guilty of aiding the rebels through negligence or passivity.

Phantom Car Case Held In Advisement

The case against J. J. Lynch, Chicago, remote radio control operator, who was in charge of the driverless car demonstration at the Hanover airport when the phantom car got out of control and injured 11 persons on July 31, was held under advisement until August 26, after a hearing before Justice of the Peace L. D. Sell, Hanover, Thursday evening. The case against William Rogge, Washington, D. C., Lynch's business manager and advance agent was dismissed. Both had been charged with assault and battery, and aggravated assault and battery by automobile.

District Attorney Ralph Fisher, representing the commonwealth, asked that charges against Rogge be dropped. He asked that the case against Lynch be held under advisement until he can check Lynch's testimony with reputable radio engineers. Lynch's bond was renewed by George W. Howe.

Much Applause

Secretaries Lose Count Of Telegrams Sent To President After Radio Speech.

Washington, August 12 (AP).—The applause that greeted President Hoover's address of acceptance last night continued to echo in the White House today in a flood of telegrams so great that his secretaries said they lost count of the number.

Mr. Hoover himself apparently dropped back into his customary routine immediately following his speech, retiring before midnight, indulging in a medicine ball game this morning and reaching his desk by 8:30 a. m.

Most of the messages came from people little known outside of their own communities. There was a noticeable lack of comment on his prohibition utterance and few telegrams were signed by outstanding prohibitionists or anti-prohibitionists.

Grave Robbers Under Arrest

Helsingfors, Finland, August 12 (AP).—Three men and three women were arrested today on a charge of mutilating bodies they had stolen from graves in the cemetery here in the practice of "black magic."

About 40 such robberies and mutilations have been reported in the past two years.

NEW FACTS IN INQUIRY

Governor Reveals Figures Of Former Commissioner Benn's Deposits.

Harrisburg, Aug. 12 (AP).—Governor Pinchot who is urging the state senate to investigate the relations of public service commission members with public utilities during the last ten years today charged that James Benn, Philadelphia, who resigned last year deposited $650,000 in banks during ten years service on the commission.

Benn's salary during this period the governor said was $100,000.

Within three of the ten years the governor said Benn deposited $375,000 which he said is more than twice as much as he alleged former chairman W. D. B. Ainey "is known to have deposited in five years."

Ainey resigned the commission recently as the senate was about to investigate the governor's charges that he had accepted favors from public utility executives.

Chambersburg Wants State Police Station

Sergeant Frutchey Leads Move To Establish Franklin County Quarters.

Sergeant Russell W. Frutchey, of the local sub-station of state police, and an officer from the state headquarters of the state police, are in Chambersburg today investigating the advisability of reopening a sub-station of state police there.

The state police detail was removed from Chambersburg some time ago and that county, Adams and York counties are being served by the local sub-station.

District Attorney Benedict, of Franklin county, is seeking to have the Chambersburg station reopened. Franklin county was left without a station largely because of economic reasons. The department, it was said, paid $50 a month rent for quarters for the detail, which with other expenses ranked it among the most costly stations in Troop E.

The Gettysburg station is an economical post from Troop E's standpoint as the rent for troopers' quarters is paid by the county, and water and electric current are furnished by the borough.

PERJURY COUNT IS DROPPED BY U. S. ATTORNEYS

Charge Against Emory L. Coblentz, Maryland Banker, Is Dismissed.

Washington, Aug. 12.—The government nolle prossed the indictment charging Emory L. Coblentz, of Frederick, Maryland, state senator and banker, with aiding in the commission of perjury at the trial last fall of persons prosecuted in connection with the collapse of the real estate investment firm of F. H. Smith and company.

The charges against Mr. Coblentz were dropped at the request of Neil Burkinshaw, special assistant to the attorney general, in a proceeding before Justice James M. Proctor. No reason was given by the attorney for his action.

Coblentz Explained Signing. The government had charged that the Maryland senator, who was associated with the Smith company, signed various allegedly spurious documents which were offered as defense evidence in the trial of G. Bryan Pitts, chairman of the defunct firm. Pitts subsequently was convicted of embezzlement.

As a voluntary witness in contempt proceedings which grew out of introduction of the papers which the government questioned, Mr. Coblentz told the court he signed the documents, but did so on representations that they were necessary to complete corporate records and with the express understanding that they would not be used in the Pitts trial. The papers were signed at Pitts' home in Florida.

Witness Against Pitts. Mr. Coblentz was a witness against Pitts in the contempt proceedings, and later appeared as a government witness against Frank G. Raichle, Buffalo attorney, who assisted in Pitts' defense, who was tried on a charge of subornation of perjury. Raichle was acquitted of the charge by a directed verdict.

Following the Washington proceedings Mr. Coblentz, who was head of a group of Maryland banks which failed last summer, was convicted of violating Maryland banking laws through acceptance of a deposit after he knew that his bank, the Central Trust company, Frederick, was insolvent. The verdict is being appealed.

The Emmitsburg branch of Coblentz's bank was closed with several others at the time of the crash.

COUNTY LEAGUE TILTS SATURDAY

All Stars Need Win To Bolster Position In Loop Standing.

Having dropped two important ball games to Bendersville, the Gettysburg All Stars will endeavor to swing back into the win column when they face Cashtown at Cashtown Saturday afternoon.

The first half champions have been in a slump during the second half and have won but one of four contests. However, they are confident of putting the All Stars out of the league race.

Gettysburg must win this game to stay in the race. Poor fielding has been one of the greatest handicaps to the local team and recent practices have been held to eliminate this.

Important Clash

The game holding the most interest this week is the Fairfield-Bendersville tilt to be played at Fairfield. Bendersville has sailed through four straight victories and seems headed toward the second half title.

Another game which promises to be hotly contested is the Arendtsville-Gardners fracas at Gardners. The apple pickers are right on the heels of Bendersville, having lost but a single game. Gardners, although winning but one of four games, has played better ball this half and is in high hopes of defeating Arendtsville.

Council Demands Tax Settlement

The McSherrystown council met in regular session with all members present. The burgess reported licenses and permits to the amount of $74. On motion by Leo Brady, seconded by Clarence Overbaugh the report was accepted. The street committee reported that Joseph Pfeffer asked permission to place a large drain pipe in the gutter in the front of his home. On motion by Edward Noel, seconded by Claude Wagaman, permission was granted.

The secretary was instructed to notify Metropolitan-Edison company that their wires strung on their poles in the town are dangerously near the ground, and should be raised. On motion of George Ackerman, seconded by Leo Brady, it was decided to ask for bids for constructing a concrete basin in the alley between North and Main streets, near St. Mary's church. The secretary was instructed to request F. X. Klunk, tax collector, to make settlement in full for 1930 taxes at the September meeting.

"THE DIAMOND BRAND"

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYRES

SYNOPSIS: Sondra Kent has been through a nervous strain, watching John Anderson save a boy from drowning in the ocean. He has held for many years the attitude of her guardian. Now he has asked her to marry him. She admits she is secretly married to Mark Merriman.

Chapter 29 SHARP EYES

"I thought you were so happy here," John said to Sondra, "only this evening you said . . ."

"It won't be the same when you've gone," she said.

They looked at one another silently, and it was Anderson who turned away.

"Go and change that dress," he said in a matter of fact voice.

She looked after him, her mouth quivering, the tears still in her eyes, then before he could reach the door, she slipped between it and him.

"John . . ."

He laid his hands on her shoulders in a grip that made her wince.

"Go and change that dress," he said again.

Then he put her gently aside and walked past her out of the room.

Sondra went slowly upstairs, clinging to the balusters as she went, trembling in every limb.

"If John had been drowned—"

the words seemed circling all about her, refusing to be silenced. "If John had been drowned—if John had been drowned—"

She changed her wet clothes mechanically and tidied her hair.

The little window overlooked the sea, and she shivered as her eyes fell upon it.

The sun had nearly disappeared below the horizon, and the chill greyness of night was creeping up over the world.

Downstairs she could hear Anderson whistling cheerily as he hunted about in the kitchen for the tea things.

She smiled tremulously, contrasting him with the man as she had known him in New York. Even Cass would be amused if he could see him now in that old flannel coat and trousers.

Presently she heard him calling to her. "Hurry up, the kettle's boiling."

She made no reply, and presently he called again—

"Sondra—"

She went out onto the stairs; Anderson was standing at the foot of them looking up.

"You've taken longer to change than I did," he said.

"Yes," she tried to smile, but her lips were unsteady.

She followed him into the little living room; he had gathered some tea things together anyhow on a tray and filled the teapot.

"I'm afraid I haven't made much of a job of it," he said ruefully.

Sondra was standing close beside him but she said nothing, and he turned to look at her and his face changed.

"What's the matter, my dear?" he asked, very gently.

She raised her eyes, infinitely pathetic they were, and angrily ashamed.

"Do you remember—" she said slowly, "the other day you said—you said that you'd stayed away because—because you wanted me to find out if it—if it was—you I wanted—or—some other man?"

She waited a moment, but he said nothing, and suddenly she hid her face in her hands. "Well, it was you I wanted, John," she whispered desolately.

Then a long silence followed, broken only by the distance voices of some people approaching the cottage.

Then Anderson said very quietly: "You don't mean that Sondra . . . you must not mean it. You mustn't make it . . . too difficult for me . . . You see—my dear—"

He broke off sharply, turning his head towards the open door as someone on the threshold gave a little amazed laugh—

"May we come in? . . . We're simply worn out . . . We've had a most frightful job to find you, Sondra . . ."

It was Beatrice Taylor.

It was too late for Sondra to hide her tears; she knew that Beatrice Taylor's sharp eyes had seen them, seen also that she and John Anderson had been standing very near to one another.

"I hope we don't intrude—" Beatrice said; she looked at Anderson coyly. "I heard you were both down here, so we thought we simply must find you if we had to walk a hundred miles. And were simply starving!"

Sondra seized upon the opportunity to escape—

"I'll make some fresh tea—it won't be a minute—" she fled to the kitchen, furious with herself, more furious with Beatrice.

To come so unexpectedly—almost as if she were spying!

Beatrice spoke behind her.

"Can't I help? I've left the boys to talk to Mr. Anderson. You might have waited to be introduced, Sondra."

Sondra had hardly realized that Beatrice had not been alone; she had hardly realized anything except the fact that she had been caught unawares at what was perhaps the most tragic moment of her life.

Beatrice seated herself on the kitchen table, and lit a cigarette.

"I do hope we haven't butted in at the wrong moment," she said.

"Were you having a lovers quarrel, darling?"

"How absurd—of course not."

Beatrice laughed. "Well, it looked like it," she said frankly. "Poor Mr. Anderson! Well, one can't say he hasn't been faithful to you."

"I don't know what you mean," Sondra protested. She had recovered herself now. "He lent me this cottage, and he came down for the week-end. He's staying up at the hotel."

"Darling, you don't suppose I thought he was staying here, do you?" Beatrice asked. "And do tell me—why on earth don't you marry him now he's free?"

"Perhaps because I don't want to, and the kettle's boiling. You'll find some more cups on the dresser."

It was an immense relief to Sondra when Beatrice collected her "boys" as she called the two rather vivid youths she had brought with her, and said good-bye.

"I do hope we haven't butted in," she said for the third time to Anderson, as they parted at the gate.

Anderson made some casual reply and went back to the cottage.

Sondra followed him, and for a moment there was unbroken silence then he said briskly: "Well, I must be off. It's getting late. I won't have to have my clothes dried."

Sondra was aimlessly clearing up the tea things.

"When will you come down again?" she asked.

He hesitated. "I will let you know," he said at last.

She raised defiant eyes. "That means you don't intend to come any more, I suppose."

He looked at her gravely.

"Don't you think it will be better if I do not?"

She broke out stormily. "Because you're afraid of the truth, I suppose, is that it? Well, I'm not afraid. I've made one muddle in my life by being afraid—by hiding things—one ghastly muddle, but this time it's going to be different—this time I—"

she broke off, and he asked quietly: "What do you want me to do, Sondra?"

Her eyes fell. "I don't know," she whispered.

He laughed rather wearily. "Neither do I. You're a married woman, and your husband is on his way home, believing that you will be glad to see him, Sondra. You married him of your own wish and will, and I don't think either of us can do anything except say good-bye."

"I thought you loved me—" "You know I love you—" "And yet you're content never to see me again."

"Not—content."

She laughed. "You don't seem to be very distressed about it anyway—calmly telling me that we must say good-bye . . . perhaps it's what you wanted—that I should be the one to suffer."

Anderson moved, crossing to where she stood and looked down at her with eyes that were rather pathetic.

"It's not for me to preach—" he said hoarsely. "I'm many miles from being perfect myself—but it seems brutally unfair, Sondra, that you should speak to me like this, after . . . after . . . deceiving me as you have done. Do you think I should ever have told you I loved you had I known about Merriman? I'm not fond of—of having my heart torn out and—thrown at me."

"It was a mistake . . . I've told you . . . I don't know what made me do it."

"And so isn't it probable that this—this feeling you have for me may be a mistake too? that perhaps—when you see Merriman again, you may be thankful that I—I haven't taken you at your word now?"

She turned her face away. "I wish I could believe that," she said fiercely. "I'd give anything in the world to find after all that you . . . weren't anything to me, and he . . ."

From 7 o'clock until 12 she missed but one set and when the dance was over, she said she wasn't tired a bit. Well, well, well, what do you think of that?

DRY AMENDMENT
IN ACCEPTANCE

President Oversteps Party Plank; "Noble Experiment" A Failure.

Washington, Aug. 12.—President Hoover in his address of acceptance Thursday advocated a change in the eighteenth amendment under which control of the liquor problem would be returned to the states.

Such a change, he said, should be predicated upon "absolute guarantees" against a return of the saloon and protection of state borders from interference or invasion.

In advocating this proposal Mr. Hoover stepped beyond the limitations of the republican platform. The platform merely proposed that the country should be given opportunity to decide whether it desired a change.

Mr. Hoover made a forthright declaration of his conviction that a change is necessary if evils which have grown up under prohibition as it exists are to be eradicated and the gains made under the present amendment, such as the eradication of the saloon, are to be preserved.

Finds Change Necessary
"It is my belief," he said, "that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary by which we re-summon a proper share of initiative and responsibility which the very essence of our government demands shall rest upon the states and local authorities. This change must avoid the return of the saloon."

It is my conviction that the nature of this change and one upon which all reasonable people can find common ground is that each state shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guarantees in the constitution of the United States to protect each state from interference and invasion by its neighbors and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other states. American statesmanship is capable of working out such a solution and making it effective."

Some 4000 republicans in Constitution hall, including party leaders from all sections of the country who will direct the republican campaign opened Thursday night by the president and distinguished guests, including the members of the supreme court and a vast radio audience, heard Mr. Hoover thus declare in effect that prohibition as we have known it for more than ten years—"the noble experiment," as he once characterized it—had failed.

If you are passing through one of these periods . . . if you are nervous and rundown . . . or suffer through too many "bad days" . . . why don't you try this medicine? Get a bottle from your druggist today. Find out for yourself why half a million women say, "It helps me!"

MRS. WILLIAM TRELOAR
R. #2, Charlotte, Michigan

"Every month I was in bed two or three days. I was a nervous wreck and could hardly do my work. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done wonders for me. I have two little boys, three and five years old. They used to get on my nerves but now their noise doesn't bother me at all. I never felt better in my life."

MRS. JENNIE M. MASSEY
137 Sumner St., Lynn, Mass.

"I could write volumes on what your Vegetable Compound has done for me after being in poor health for nine years. After my daughter was born I was a physical wreck. Three bottles of the Vegetable Compound restored me to health. I took it again before my second child was born and had a very easy confinement. I am now over fifty and do all the work for a small rooming house."

MRS. ALLAN MARTIN
1435 N. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

"I suffered from cramps from the time I was a young girl until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I wish I had taken it years before. I have to work hard because my husband has been sick for three years but I manage to run the house and take care of my little girl, thanks to the Compound."

EPCO EVENS LOCAL SERIES

The Epcos nine evened the series for the benefit of the mosquito fund by defeating the All-Star nine on the playground Thursday evening, 9-2.

Roy Moser held the league team to four blows, three of which were for extra bases. He fanned eight and walked two.

Bucher was solved for nine hits by the gas-men. Five bases on balls also aided the Epcos team.

Fleming's sparkling catch of Kuhn's bid for a hit in the first inning with runners on second and third, was the fledging gem of the game.

"DANGEROUS PRACTICE"

The "Marihuana Habit" is being watched closely by the bureau of drug control, state department of health, as it spreads over Pennsylvania, according to Harold V. Smith, chief. Developing first in Philadelphia, the smoking of Marihuana cigarettes has made some progress in other parts of the commonwealth. The use of the herb does not come within the narcotic laws of Pennsylvania, but has been outlawed by 12 states, and its use is looked upon with special disfavor in the states bordering Mexico. The bureau brands the practice as dangerous.

STOMACH TROUBLE SO BAD YORK CO. MAN COULD ONLY EAT TOAST

Now Eats Three Big Meals Every Day Without Any Distress Afterwards. Thanks Natex. Says It Also Ended Constipation And Biliousness.

Every sufferer from stomach trouble and constipation should visit the Natex man at Bender's Cut Rate Store and learn about the new triple-strength Natex. Natex contains about three times as much real medicine as is found in any ordinary tonic. Every dose brings you almost nine grains of tonics for your stomach as well as sixty grains of other beneficial ingredients for your whole system. That is why Natex so quickly and positively relieves the many ailments which are found when the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are weakened and deranged.

Mr. John Kopp, the popular foreman of the Gladfield Paper Mills, who lives at 149 East St., Spring Grove, has recently had the following experience with Natex. He says:

"My wife had taken Natex with such wonderful results that I thought it might overcome my trouble. For a long time I had been suffering with a serious case of stomach trouble and nearly everything I ate gave me indigestion and dyspepsia, and generated so much gas that I could hardly breathe. This condition became so bad that it finally reached the point where I couldn't eat anything but toast, else I would have terrible pains afterwards. In addition to this, I was constipated and frequently suffered with bilious spells.

"Almost from the very first dose of Natex I began to feel better and now that I have finished only three bottles I am free from all my trouble. I have a great appetite, can eat almost anything that comes along, and best of all, I no longer suffer afterwards. My bowels are acting the way they should, the sickly bilious spells have disappeared, and I sleep like a log every night. My friends tell me that I am now the picture of health and I have Natex to thank for that."

Natex is being sold and recommended by all leading druggists everywhere and especially by Bender's Cut Rate Store (formerly Murphy's), 16 Baltimore St. Accept no substitute, there is no other prescription like Natex. Natex is the only triple-strength prescription perfected by a college professor from nature's roots and herbs.
